

Never before published:

LOLLIPOP, TED NELSON'S STATE-MACHINE LANGUAGE FOR INTERFACE DESIGN, 1970-1.

[Turns out to be a Mealy Machine, discovered 1955 by George Mealy.]

May be understood as a cognitively manageable way of chaining IF statements.

THE HARD PART: figuring out the more obscure states and their transitions.

JOT™ defined in Lollipop (not all shown)

